Design Incubation Programme

Organiser: Hong Kong Design Centre

Introduction: The "Design Incubation Programme" (DIP) aims to nurture design start-ups at the early stage of their business development, with hardware and software support. The DIP enhances the competitiveness of the design start-ups at their early stage of development through the provision of office space, training programmes, consultancy service, mentorship, networking activities, as well as financial support on subsidised office rental and business operating expenses, etc. over a two-year incubation period. Industrial organisations, academic institutes, investment angels, professional bodies and business partners are valued supporters of this programme.
